In the New Hanza area of Riga, a former freight depot has been converted into an impressive concert hall – Hanzas Perons. With more than 100 years of history behind it, the building combines historical architecture and modern design. Hanzas Perons has established itself as a central meeting place in Riga, providing a platform for culture, art and music. Under the direction of Sudraba Arhitektūra and Reinis Liepins, the industrial heritage was preserved and expanded with modern elements, such as a glass façade and a RHEINZINK roof.
